

JEC STAFF AWARDED SIR EDWARD YOUBE MEMORIAL OUTSTANDING APPRENTICE AWARD 2005

27 March 2006 - Our two craft apprentices, Mr Chau Wai Leung and Mr Fung Wing Fung, were awarded the Sir Edward Youde Memorial Outstanding Apprentice Award 2005 and Apprentices of Excellent Performance 2005, respectively. This Outstanding Apprentice Award was organised by the Committee on Apprenticeship and Trade Testing of the Vocational Training Council over the last 12 years. The award aims to provide recognition and encouragement to young people who did not proceed through the formal education system, but continue to pursue their development potential by undertaking courses of technical training and a period of apprenticeship for a designated trade under the Apprenticeship Ordinance. Each year, many reputable organisations nominate their apprentices to participate in this award scheme. This year JEC supported the scheme to encourage staff achievements for continuous improvement by nominating outstanding apprentices. JEC's apprentices have participated in the programme for over 11 years, and our nominees have received many awards over this period. In the future, JEC will continue with efforts in developing staff, providing them with more opportunities to further improve and sharpen their skills. It is JEC's intention to build a stronger and more professional team to better serve our customers as our number one priority.
